Associate Justice Perry writes the opinion of the court, which, in part, is as follows:

"This is an action as assumpsit for $677.82. The declaration contains two counts, one for money paid for use of account stated.

"One exception is to the granting of case. Although much evidence sought to be introduced by the plaintiff was excluded, still sufficient was admitted to have justified the jury in finding being about to enter into a partner-ship for the cultivation and sale of sugar cane, defendant requested plaintiff to pay for him from time to time such amounts as might be necessary to meet the defendant's share of the expenses of such cultivation; that the plaintiff agreed and during the cultiva-tion of the first crop, paid out on behalf of the defendant the sum of $677.82 and that the defendant promised to pay the same and that defend-
